indopack 2018: Opportunities in burgeoning packaging sectors are here to stay

25 Apr 2017, Singapore – indopack, member of the interpack alliance and modelled after the expertise of the leading global trade fair in packaging and related processing industries – interpack, organized by Messe Düsseldorf, Germany – the 4-day trade exhibition will continue to build on the overwhelming turnout achieved in 2016. With a breakthrough turnout of 372 international exhibitors from 20 countries and a record-breaking attendance of 22,479 trade visitors from 34 countries in its previous edition, indopack 2018 is poised to make an even bigger impact.

Jointly organised by Messe Düsseldorf Asia and its local partner, PT. Wahana Kemaliniaga Makmur (Wakeni), the highly anticipated biennial Indonesian International Packaging Exhibition will take place from 19 to 22 September 2018 at Jakarta International Expo Kemayoran, Indonesia. With strong industry support from distinguished ministries and associations, the essential trade exhibition will provide a one-stop business platform to serve the entire end-to-end supply chain for relevant industries.

indopack 2018 is strategically designed to tap on the synergies of the many packaging-related sectors in Indonesia. The trade fair offers a complete range of machinery and equipment for packaging production, materials processing, manufacturing, components, packaging solutions and raw materials through the target groups of food, beverages, confectionery and baked goods, pharmaceuticals, cosmetics, non-food consumer goods and industrial goods across the burgeoning packaging markets.

Growing Population, Growing Opportunities

The world's fourth largest country, in terms of population, is developing rapidly. With an average of 520 live births every hour, Indonesia's middle-class population alone is expected to double to 141 million people within the next five years. The plastics, printing, packaging and processing industries are projected to grow in tandem with the rapid escalation of the consumer market and eventual surge in demand for food and lifestyle goods. International Monetary Fund list Indonesia as the 16th largest economy in the global scale. It is projected to propel to a high 7th position with an estimated 135 million consumers, making Indonesia a highly lucrative investment economy to exploit.

Propitious Indicators in ASEAN Packaging Industry

Formed in December 2015, the ASEAN Economic Community (AEC) aims to establish an added globally-competitive single market and boost economic ties between the countries in ASEAN by reducing trade tariffs and allowing a free flow of labour and capital across the nations. This is expected to help lift imports and exports, providing businesses with greater opportunities to expand on a regional and global scale.

Strategic Co-location

To further enhance the regional focus and international outlook of the exhibition, the next edition of indopack will once again be co-located with INDOPLAS, the 11th Indonesian International Plastics Exhibition, and indoprint 2018, the 10th Indonesian International Printing Exhibition. The strategic parallel showing of these trade exhibitions will sharpen the profile and enhance the relevancy of the plastics, packaging and printing ecosystem.

The Indonesian International Plastics Exhibition will bring together leading professionals from the panorama of the plastics and rubber industries. INDOPLAS 2018 will present a full suite of technologies and solutions from raw materials to cutting-edge machineries and value-added services from the entire plastics and rubber spectrum.

indoprint has become Indonesia's leading printing exhibition and has contributed to developing higher standards in the local printing industry. The trade fair presents an extensive range of printing machinery, accessories and innovative printing applications. Growing consumer confidence has put Indonesia on track to achieve a larger market share in the global market.
